Hanna Named to Small Business Committee

Washington, D.C. – U.S. Rep. Richard Hanna (R, C, I-Barneveld) will join the House Small Business Committee, committee Chairman Sam Graves (R-Mo.) announced today. Hanna is the 15th Republican Member on the Committee.

“Congressman Hanna has a long history of creating private-sector jobs, balancing a real budget and making tough decisions,” Chairman Graves said. “His real-world experience will be of immense value to the Committee. Richard knows first-hand how tax increases and burdensome government regulations kill jobs and thus, how vital it is to remove these barriers and help foster an environment where small businesses can expand and create jobs.”

Upon being named to the Committee, Hanna said, “As a small businessman for over three decades, I know that if small business does not do well, then this country will not do well. We need low, predictable taxes, less red tape, and new ways to encourage business formation. I look forward to working with Chairman Graves and the entire Committee to help create an environment where business can thrive.”

Hanna represents New York’s 24th Congressional District.
